

Lunchtime Webinar
12.00 pm – 1.00 pm
Friday 30 September 2022

Applying population analyses to piece together disparate statistics and stories – a de facto union between statistics and anthropology

Len Cook

Former NZ Government Statistician and
UK National Statistician

URL to join: <https://massey.zoom.us/j/85360559205>

The abstract of the presentation is on the following page

Abstract

Over the past fifteen years a huge shift has occurred in the age mix of the Māori prison population. The paper discusses how events of 70 years ago have influenced current trends, and the prospects for the generation now in their infancy.

I present an example of generating crude cohorts from age specific rates for annual periods